Born in Cleveland, Ohio, she graduated from Lewis and Clark College and holds a Master of Divinity degree from the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, Calif., which awarded her an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree in 2002.

She was ordained to the priesthood in 1982 in the Diocese of Newark, where she served as assistant to the vicar at Grace Church (Van Vorst) in Jersey City. She served as urban resident at St. Philip the Evangelist Church in Washington, D.C., from 1982 to 1984, and as priest-in-charge of Holy Communion Church from 1984 to 1992, also serving at that time as nave clergy at Washington National Cathedral. In 1992, she was called as rector of St. Luke and St. Simon Cyrene Church in Rochester, N.Y., where she served until her 2002 election.

Prior to her election as bishop, she served the Diocese of Rochester as a dean and was a member of the Commission on Ministry and the worship and liturgy and companion diocese task forces. She served on the Rochester Commission on Christian Jewish Relations, the Center for Progressive Christianity Advisory Board and the Interfaith Forum of Rochester Steering Committee. She was also an adjunct professor at Colgate Rochester Divinity School. She was a deputy to the Episcopal Church's General Convention and served on the church's Program, Budget and Finance Committee.

Bishop Harris completed service in 2006 as a member of the Joint Nominating Committee for the election of the current presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. She is a past vice chair of the Church Pension Fund Board of Trustees and has served on the Board of Directors of CREDO (a national resource program fostering Episcopal Church clergy leadership and wellness) and the Steering Committee for Bishops Working for a Just World.
